Masari Collaboration Corner Charter

I.   The Collaboration Corner houses three autonomous bodies of contributors, who will work together to advance the Masari project:

a. Core Team | Developmental

i. The Core Team is primarily concerned with the development of Masari.

ii. The voting bloc is the entire Core Team.

iii. The team will continue operating as it has, but under this framework. New entrants will have roles created for them upon endorsement.

b. Ambassadors | Localization

i. Ambassadors are primarily concerned with the localization of Masari.

ii. The voting bloc is the entire body of Ambassadors.

iii. There are three tiers of Ambassadorship with (role caps):

Continental (8) | National (195) | Provincial (∞)

Tiers are scaled based on geographical coverage, capacity, languages, project knowledge, and overall willingness & wherewithal. As the scope of the title scales down, so does the associated contribution level.

c. Emissaries | Growth

i. Emissaries are primarily concerned with the growth of Masari.

  ii. Emissaries will congregate within committees dedicated to a purpose. The program will launch with four specializations – Adoption | Education | Multimedia | Social

  iii. Committees serve as their own voting blocs in nearly all instances. Exceptions are amendments, transitional votes, and creating new committees.

  iv. An Emissary can endorse someone for a position on any committee.

  v. To keep balance, the variance between committees can never exceed +/- 5 Emissaries.

  vi. Emissaries can launch new committees through an initiative vote involving the entire body.

II. Participation is entirely voluntary with no expectation of financial reward or support. There is no hierarchy, nor is there any form of employment. No titles empowering authority should ever be bestowed.

III. Participation in one body or committee precludes explicit participation in another body or committee.

IV. The Charter is the only binding document held or observed in unison by the Core Team, Ambassadors & Emissaries.

 a. Activity that requires project participants to meet KYC or AML standards, or to tie their identity to the project in the form of exchange listings, payment processing, event hosting or similar, is exempted from this article.

V.   Collaboration Corner participants agree to devote their collective efforts to the same chain.

VI.   The on-boarding process for any prong of the Collaboration Corner will happen through endorsements. An existing program participant can endorse someone to join their respective body. When providing an endorsement, the endorser will name the desired, single role for the endorsee. The endorser will also support their endorsement with some form of reasoning. The endorsee is welcome to state their case.

The number of endorsements required (E) is proportional to the number of body members (B). The endorsement model is as follows:

$$E = 3/5(B)$$

(E) is always rounded down

VII.   As the only pre-existing body, the initial onboarding for the two other bodies will follow the endorsement model and be administered by the Core Team. Once the Ambassadors & Emissaries are individually large enough (3) to meet their own endorsement requirements, onboarding will be handled internally.

Should any body drop below three persons, the larger of the two other bodies will endorse participants, following the endorsement model, until sustainable levels are reached. Should no bodies be able to produce sufficient endorsement levels, then any role can be walked into until endorsement requirements can be met within a given body.

VIII. Collaboration Corner participants have a Call to Vote at their disposal. The calls apply internally to bodies or committees.

    a. Call to Vote

        i. A call to vote can be requested by any participant. A vote must be held open for 72 hours if needed, and the results must be independently verifiable.

        ii. Votes should be presented in a fashion of Yay – Nay – Abstain, unless the vote provides a variety of options for an initiative or fund allocation.

        iii. There are 3 types of vote calls. Calls must fall within these parameters. Votes outside of these areas are considered un-actionable.

            1. Initiatives – Provides direction and guidance to activity within a body or committee.

            2. Fund Allocation – If a body or committee receives funding then an allocation vote can be set to appropriate its use.

            3. Transitional – Should a participant be excessively absent or bring undue harm onto the project, then a call can be made to remove them from the body. Supporting documentation is required, and the voting bloc is the entire body.
Additionally, if a participant's absence is impacting voting or endorsement requirements, the body can vote to transition the participant into an exempted state before moving them entirely out of the program.

The exemption removes that participant's number requirement (B) in endorsing and voting until they resurface.

    iv. If a participant is removed from their role in a transitional call, they are barred from any further contribution within the program, in perpetuity.

IX. Any votes that take place will pass with 3/5 support (≥60.0%). If a measure fails, it, or an associated version cannot be called to vote again for 30 days.

X. This Charter can be amended using the aforementioned voting process. The participant requesting an amendment should outline their reasoning, format the specific language, and present it to their body in the form of an initiative vote call. If the Charter Amendment passes, then a second vote call involving the entire population of the Collaboration Corner can be made by the requestor. If the proposed amendment passes in the second vote, with support from the Core Team, Ambassadors, and Emissaries alike, then the Charter Amendment can be installed.
